About Me

Hi I'm Dante, a frontend developer who loves all things Javascript. I enjoy building responsive websites with interactive user experiences. I have a passion for learning and picking up new technologies.

Development Experience

- Built a CMS driven modern React/Gatsby website with GraphQL API calls to contentful.
- Built a range of frontend websites using a combination of Javascript, HTML, CSS and React. These websites follow a mobile first approach.
- Built a small-scale full stack website using the MERN stack.
- Experienced using GIT with a small team for version control.

Other Skills

- Three years working in retail and hospitality have given me strong communication skills and taught me to always think about how my work will affect the customer.
- A year long, world cycle touring trip taught me that any challenge can be overcome and helped me realize that I am a capable problem solver.
